

Sally Sprout Recites Vows With Clayton Mallard Aug. 5

Rays of late afternoon sunlight filtered through the windows onto the altar at the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Sunday afternoon, as the 400 wedding guests assembled for the 4 o'clock nuptials uniting Miss Sally Sprout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sprout, 1327 Beech Ave., and Clayton Mallard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Mallard, 4552 W. 161 St., Lawndale.

Two gold goblet vases filled with white gladioli were on either side of the altar as were three white cathedral candles. Just inside the rail were branched candelabra holding 12 tall white candles. Two wicker baskets filled with white chrysanthemums, gladioli and pink rosebuds were at the base of the candelabra.

BRIDE ENTERS
The beautiful bride came to the altar on the arm of her father. She was lovely in her wedding gown which she had designed on simple elegant line. The princess gown of white crystalline lines over taffeta. Each seam had an insertion of lace from the neckline to the hem. The full skirt fell into a chapel train outlined with lace. The long fitted sleeves formed a point over the hand. A dainty lace hat held the French imported illusion veil and the bride carried a cascade of white philanopsis orchids and stephanotis centered with two white orchids. For her "something old and borrowed" she wore a diamond and gold locket, belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. J. H. Sprout, which was a gift many years ago from the bride's grandfather, Jess H. Sprout.

The bride's sister, Miss Peggy Sprout served as maid of honor. She wore a white organdy gown over a fuchsia taffeta slip. Her gown had an empire waistline with a bateau neck design. Her bouquet was a nosegay of white shattered carnations on a crocheted dolly made by the bride's grandmother.

The bridesmaids were Miss Gaylene Mallard, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Fern Rudolph, Miss Lois Okahire, roommate of the bride at Whittier College, and Miss Melba Jean Sprout, sister of the bride, junior bridesmaid. They were beautiful in their gowns created by the bride. They were on the same lines as the matron of honor's gown and were of white nylon organdy over blush pink taffeta.

Each carried a bouquet of bluish pink shattered carnation on white dollies tied with ribbons. Their tiny hats were of white organdy over pink taffeta and were edged in lace.

DROPS PETALS
Just ahead of the bride, was a younger sister, Linda Sprout, dressed identically as the matron of honor. As flower girl, she carried a lace basket crocheted by her grandmother, and scattered pink petals in the path of the bride.

Craig Truman carried the two rings on a small lace and crystalline pillow.

Jerry Hardesty served as best man and counterparts were Bob McCutcheon, Bill Oehlert, David Mallard and Tommy Russell.

The Rev. Hugh Percy officiated at the double ring ceremony as Lee Hughes, accompanied by Mrs. Meredith Anderson, organist, sang "O Perfect Love," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Ave Marie."

Wolf-Gazeley Names Are Linked in Marriage Rite

To the first thrilling chords of the wedding march, Miss Donna Pat Wolf, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don B. Wolf, 21604 Halldale Ave., entered St. Peter's Episcopal Church last Saturday evening at 8, to recite her wedding vows with Richard Joseph Gazeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gazeley, 22540 S. Vermont Ave.

Bouquets of coral, pink and white gladioli and stock decorated the altar on which were two seven-branched candelabra holding tall white waxen candles. The path down which the bridal party walked was outlined with white satin ribbons draped from each pew at which were bouquets of pink and white gladioli.

Mr. Wolf escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. She was regal in her wedding gown of layers of white tulle over taffeta. The bodice of the gown was of tiny pleats of tulle which formed a draped neckline. The billowy skirt of the gown was bordered with small tulle pleats. The fingertip illusion veil was held by a Juliet cap of tiny seed pearls. Completing the bridal picture was the bouquet of white orchids and philanopsis atop a small white Bible.

Heading the bridal entourage were the bridesmaids, Miss Barbara Gay and Miss Martha Jean Kelly. They wore waltz length gowns of pink crystalline designed with boat necklines and long torsos with bouffant skirts. Their small pillbox hats with veils were in matching shades of pink. Each carried a cascade of coral gladioli.

Miss Judy Wolf was her sister's maid of honor. Her gown was of coral crystalline fashioned on the same lines as the bridesmaids' gowns. Her bouquet was a cascade of pink gladioli.

Ronald Farish served as best man and ushers were Robert Gazeley, Paul J. Gazeley, Jr., Jerry Jeffery, Dan Montgomery and Robert Wolf.

Mrs. Byrle Shuck at the organ played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Carol Hogan who sang "O Perfect Love" and the benediction.

The Rev. Hugh Percy of the Torrance Episcopal Church officiated at the vow exchange. The 500 wedding guests were then entertained at a reception in the parish hall where a five-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table. Hostesses at the reception were Misses Pat Price, Em Braden, Ann Kuhl and Mrs. Joseph Bergeret. Mrs. John Deere was in charge of the gift table and Mrs. William Hasvold registered the guests.
